The building in the photo isn't a chimney or a castle tower. (1) is an unusual apartment block in the Swedish city of Kalmar. In the past, (2) was a water tower. Now inside the tower, (3) are eleven apartments on fifteen floors. A modern lift can take you to the top, but in the old water tower there was (4) lift, just stairs. The tower overlooks the whole city and the sea, so the view is amazing. Another plus is peace and quiet because there aren't (5) other big houses near the building.

In the photo, I can see two , probably in their new flat. They're trying to put together some furniture. The man is sitting on the , reading some instructions. The woman is sitting him on the sofa, working on her laptop. I think she is looking for some information on the Internet to help the man because he confused. There are some next to the man, so I guess they've got a lot of work to do.
