WIMBLEDON CHAMPIONSHIPS

If you are a tennis fan, then I'm sure you have heard about Wimbledon. Organised in London every summer, it is the oldest and one of the most prestigious tennis tournaments in the world.

The first Wimbledon tournament (1) (take) place in 1877 when tennis was still a new sport. There were no professional tennis players and cricket was the most popular spectator sport. In fact, Spencer Gore, who (2) (win) the first 1877 tournament, (3) (play) cricket professionally before signing up for the Wimbledon Championships.

Some things haven't changed at Wimbledon since its early days. The matches are still played on grass, just like over a hundred years ago. However, the courts are very different. In 2009, their owners (4) (install) a special roof over the main court that can be closed in case of rain. Now, bad weather doesn't stop the matches.

An important Wimbledon tradition is that the players wear white clothes. At first, women had to wear a long white dress. When, in 1922, Suzanne Lenglen (5) (appear) on the court wearing a shorter dress, the public was shocked because they (6) (never see) anything like that.

If you are interested in tennis, make sure to visit the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Museum. You'll discover more fun facts about this sport.
