NOVEL OF THE MONTH: WILLIAM GOLDING'S LORD OF THE FLIES

This recently published edition of a classic bestseller shows us Golding's writing. The book tells the story of a group of boys left alone on a tropical island after a plane crash.

The story starts when Ralph, the fair-haired hero and Piggy, an overweight boy with glasses decide that all the boys should have a meeting and get organised. At the meeting the boys want to choose the leader of the island. Ralph is one candidate but he has to compete with Jack, a bossy boy. Ralph wins the 'elections' and becomes the leader. However, when Jack starts hunting wild pigs for meat, he wins the boys' respect. Soon, one by one they leave Ralph and join Jack instead. Finally, Ralph is left alone with Piggy and they face the final battle with Jack and his hunters.

Like all conflicts, this one also has its victims. The book has a dramatic ending which gives a pessimistic image of humans: our true nature is wild, violent and cruel.
