I go to a school near my home and I'm in my last year. Amish children start school when they're six and finish at the age of fourteen. There are nineteen children in my school and we all have lessons in one room. My sister Rebecca is in my class, too. She's nine years old.

Our lessons are in English, but we don't speak English at home – we speak a German dialect. At school we study Maths, English, Geography, History, German and Music. We don't talk in our lessons. We listen to our teachers and we study from books. We don't have computers.

At lunchtime we have a break. We don't eat in the classroom. We bring sandwiches from home. After lunch, we study again and we finish school at 3 p.m.

- School age: Amish children must go to school from 6 to 14 years old.

Our school trip to Stonehenge

By Luke

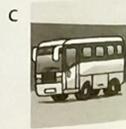

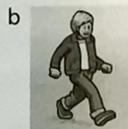

Yesterday, my school visited Stonehenge. It's an old stone circle near the town of Salisbury in the south of England. It's about 5,000 years old. You can go by train from London, but we went on the school coach. We parked in the car park and then we walked around the stones.

Stonehenge is very mysterious. Some people think it was a kind of church, but no one really knows. The biggest stones weigh around 45,000 kilograms and came from hundreds of kilometres away.

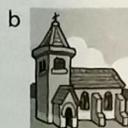

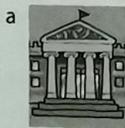

After Stonehenge we went to Salisbury. We had a picnic in the park and then we went shopping. My friend bought a T-shirt with a picture of Salisbury Cathedral on the front. I wanted a book about Stonehenge, but I didn't find one, so I bought some postcards. It was a really good trip.
